

INDEX

TO THE

SEVENTY-NINTH VOLUME OF THE QUARTERLY REVIEW.

A.

Adair, A. S., Esq.—'The Winter of 1846-7' in Antrim, 463. See Poor Law.

Adams, Mr., how far entitled to the merit of the discovery of Le Verrier's planet, 98 note.

Agriculture in France, 202—interest of the subject, ib.—free-trade notions respecting, 203—deterioration of, 204—the broad system recommended, ib.—M. Mounier's work on, 205—laws respecting descent of property, 206—practical application of, 208—number of proprietors, 210—annual revenue, ib.—estimate of the several classes of income, 211—progress of the dispersion of property over accumulation, 212—M. Villèle's opinion on, ib.—its influence on industry, 215—poverty of French propriétaires, 216—the law in force for their indulgence, 217—incumbrances, 219—effect of the 'morcellement' on produce, 224—the half-profit system, 225—the English, ib.—comparison of French and English produce, 226—general average produce of France, 227—export duties, 228—northern and southern departments compared, ib.—consumption of animal food, 229—decrease of corn cultivation, 230—domestic animals, ib.—principle of dealing with land as a mere chattel in England, 237.

Amiens, the peace of, 520.

Arms, in Ireland, increased demand for, 257, 264 n.

Argyle, Marquis of, 25. See Montrose.

Army, the, the discipline and organization of, 450—the Duke of Wellington's opinions on, ib.—reasons why privates do not make good officers, 452—Government scheme for the better education of soldiers, 453—the position and employment of the schoolmaster, 455—suggestions for carrying out the new system, 457—school-rooms, ib.—canteen system, 458—arrangement for a garrison library, 459—the dormitory, 460—marriage of soldiers, ib.—Mr. Maule's proposal for changing the term of enlistment, 461—probable results of, considered, ib.—effect of such a system on the Government colonial policy, 462.

Arrow-headed writing. See Rawlinson.

Astronomy, commencement of era in, 97—progress of, 105.

Athenians, mercurial character of the, 362. Austria, situation of, with respect to Spain, 408—marriages between the families of the two countries, 409.

Authors, dramatic, appearance of in different nations, 363.

Ayres, H. See Malt-Tax.

B.

Barrister, Tales by a, 61—'The Receipt,' 86—'The Power of Attorney,' 67—outline of the tale, ib.—and see a practical illustration of, 307—'The Purchase,' ib.—'The Trustee,' 68—College life described, 70—College debt, 74—delays in Chancery, 89.

Beccaria, effect of his book on punishment by torture, 345, and note.

Becker, Professor, works of, illustrative of the private life of the Greeks and Romans, 336—and see Greeks.

Behistan, inscriptions at. See Rawlinson. Botta, M., his discoveries at Khorsabad, 413, 438, 439, 440.

Boussingault, M., experiments of, on the feeding of cattle, 233 n.

Brenton, Sir Jahleel, Memoirs of, by the Rev. H. Raikes, 273—pedigree, 274

- cause of Sir Jahleel's father leaving America, ib.—Sir Jahleel's opinions on courage, 275—early life of, 276—receives his lieutenantcy, 277—passage in a Spanish man-of-war, ib.—conduct in saving the 'Gibraltar,' 279—promotion, 280—love passages, 281—marriage, 282—Brenton in the 'Cæsar,' 284—battle of Algeiras, 285—peace of Amiens, 287—Brenton in the 'Minerve,' ib.—capture of, 288—Verdun, 290—Brenton's conduct towards the junior officers, ib.—appreciated by the authorities, 292—his account of his religious feelings, 293—state of the prisoners in Givet, 294—conduct of Napoleon to English prisoners, 296—edicts of 1805, 298—the exchange of Brenton for Jurieu refused by Napoleon, ib.—kindness of Decrès, ib.—arrival of Mrs. Brenton, 299—Mr. Raikes's dissertation thereon, ib.—Brenton in London, 300—appointment to the 'Spartan,' ib.—adventure with an American, 301—French prisoners at Malta, ib.—attack of a polacre, 302—Collingwood's reception of Brenton, 303—demolition of the Neapolitan squadron, 304—his feelings on going into action, 304 n.—is severely wounded, and returns to England, 305—receives a pension, 306—proceedings in the Court of Admiralty, ib.—appointment to the 'Stirling Castle,' ib.—resigns the ship, receives his baronetcy, and is made Commissioner in the Balearic Islands, ib.—sent to the Cape, ib.—death of his wife, 308—Sir Jahleel's representations to the Bishop of London on the religious state of the colony at the Cape, ib.—return to England and second marriage, 309—appointment of, to Greenwich Hospital, ib.—his retirement, promotion, and death, 310.
- Brougham, Lord, his sketch of the discharge of official duties by George III., 516.
- Buonaparte. See Brenton.
- 'Burial Clubs,' 371.
- Burke, Mr., 489, 490.
- C.
- Cambrensis, Giraldu, his description of the Irish, 478.
- Canning, Mr., the pleasantries of, 513 n. 520 n. See Sidmouth.
- Catholic Emancipation, 499.
- Cattle. See Agriculture.
- Chancery, the Court of, delays in, 89—expenses of, 90—the Master's office, 91—state of the cause-papers in August, 1846, ib.
- Charles I. See Montrose.
- Charles II., negotiations of, with the Covenanters, 44.
- Châteauvieux, M., his computation of proprietary families in France, 211 n.
- Chemistry, commencement of the era in, 96—phenomena of, ib.
- Child-murder. prevalence of, amongst the Romans, 368.
- Christian festivities, irreverence of, 350 n.
- Clarendon, inaccuracies of, 11.
- Climate, influence of, morally and politically, 353—Montesquieu's doctrine of, 353 n.
- Collier, J. P. See Shakespeare.
- Colchester, Lord, his diary, 500.
- Collingwood, Lord. See Brenton.
- Cordara, Giulio Cesare, birth of, 150—literary performances of, ib.—his history of the expedition of Charles Edward, 141, 150—description of the Highlanders by, 158—allusions to the Presbyterian clergy, 159—spelling of English surnames, 160.
- Corinth, 340.
- 'Costume, British,' by J. R. Planché. See Dress.
- Country Party, the policy and strength of, 269.
- Crime, statistics of, by persons under 20 years of age, 133—carelessness of tradesmen and servants a great inducement to, 134.
- Cromwell, Oliver, his chambers in Lincoln's Inn, 66.
- Cyrus, the tomb of, 420—inscriptions on, 421—his vision, 428.
- D.
- D'Arblay, Madame, on the death of Burke, 490 n.
- Darius, Hystaspes, monuments of, 413. And see Rawlinson.
- Decrès, M. See Brenton.
- Dedekindus, some account of, 365 n.
- Deity, on the omnipotence of the, 361.
- Dietaries, average of, in France and England, 218 and note.
- Drama, the decline of the Roman, 362—the Italian and Spanish, 364—the ancient Portuguese, 168—history of, 169. And see Vicente.
- Dress, the Art of, &c., 372—caprice in, 373—inconvenience of the present male attire, 374—effects of a well-chosen feminine toilet, 375—the dress of women an index to their qualities, ib.—examples, 376 et seq.—three grand unities of dress to be observed, 378—female dress of the present day considered, 380—the gown, 381—the skirt, ib.—flounces, 382—the scarf, ib.—mantillas, ib.—shawls, 383—irregularity in drapery recommended, ib.—the hat, ib.—its want of character, 384—the plain straw hat recommended, ib.—merits of the old costumes, 386—head-dresses, ib.—effect of different styles on the same person, ib.—the present style not adapted to old women, 387—the beau idéal of a real old woman, 388—absurdity of their wearing juvenile dress, 389—the worst aspect of female old age, 389 n.—the style of dress in Sir P. Lely's portraits, 394—in those of Sir Joshua Reynolds, 396—the head-dress, 397—hair-powder, 398—on the dressing of Englishwomen compared with French and German, 399.

Dyce, Rev. A. See Shakespeare.

E.

Education, National Board of, 474 n.
Electricity, experimental researches in. See Faraday.
England and Wales, superficies and population of, in 1841, 209 n.—annual value of property assessed to poor-rate in, 210 n.—agricultural produce of, compared with that of France, 226 n.
Esquiline, the, a burial-ground, 371.

F.

Fairholt, F. W. See Dress.
'Faraday's Experimental Researches in Electricity,' from the Philosophical Transactions, 19th, 20th, and 21st series, 93—character of the memoirs, ib.—Dr. Faraday's place as a discoverer in this branch of science, ib.—the magnetizing of light, 108—phenomenon of polarized light explained, 110—the electro magnet, 111—description of experiment by Dr. Faraday, 112—further experiments, 113—the general law as to the phenomena of rotation in polarized light, ib.—the rotative influence over a ray of light possessed by different substances, 114—the question as to polarized light propounded, 115—earlier impressions regarding the discovery, ib.—relation between light and the magnetic and electric forces, 116—the infirmity of language in application to the subjects, 117—magnetic condition of all matter, 118—old distinction between magnetic and non-magnetic bodies, 119—Dr. Faraday's discovery as to the latter described, ib.—experiments on, 120, 122—his general deductions, 125—and see Science.

'Fashion, Annals of,' by a Lady of Rank. See Dress.

Flandin, M., his account of discoveries at Khorsabad, 439—and see Botta.

Flunkey, etymology of the word, 344 n.

Foundling hospital, the first on record, 360 n.

France. See Agriculture.

Free trade, fallacies of, respecting foreign assistance, 203, 228—present condition and future prospects of the country in reference to, by F. C., 238—the repeal of the malt-tax considered, 265.

G.

Gallus and Charicles, Tales of. See Greeks and Romans.

Garrett, Mr., his play of the 'Auto de Gil Vicente,' 199.

George III., opposition of, to Catholic Emancipation, 499 et seq.—his assiduity in matters of business, 515—letters of, on the Priestley Riots, 517.

Greeks and Romans, the, private life of, illustrated by Professor Becker, 336—plan of his Tales, ib.—the Gallus, 338—the Charicles, 339—the character of Corinth, 340, and note—the obscurity of the national private life of, in classical remains, 341—patriotism of antiquity, ib.—definition of slavery, and the different systems described, 342, 343, 346—the employment of slaves, 344, 347—their punishments, ib.—privilege of Athenian slaves, 345—preponderance of slaves over freemen, 347—the prices of, 348—amusements and accomplishments of the Greeks and Romans, 349—games and shows of Rome, ib.—the Spoliarium, 351—Greek national games, ib.—influence of satire on vice, 352—comparative general decency in the Roman stage, ib.—female life in Greece, 354—club-houses, 355—treatment of women in Rome, ib.—the wholesome influence of their presence on exhibitions, 356—Roman dramatic authors, ib.—reasons for their being borrowers only, 357, 362—consequences of their imitations, 358—Grecian comedy, 359—incidents introduced, ib.—tragedy, 360—M. Becker's misrepresentations as to, 361—doctrines inculcated by Grecian tragedians, ib.—contrast between the tragedians and comedians, 362—decline of the Roman drama, ib.—periodical appearance of great dramatic authors, 363—the multiplicity of dramatic productions accounted for, 364—crimes and punishments, 365—influence of military discipline, 368—punishments for desertion, 369—severities of, compared with our flogging in the army, 370—Roman plan of providing for the soldier, ib.—their 'burial-clubs,' 371—their burial-grounds, ib.

 Grotefend, Professor, discoveries of, in cuneiform characters, 415.
 Gurwood, Colonel, melancholy fate of, 449—posthumous edition of the Duke of Wellington's Dispatches by, ib.

H.

Hallam, his remarks on poets, 311 n.
 Hamlet. See Shakespeare.
 Hardinge, Lord, 270—and see Punjab.
 Henchman, etymology of the word, 344 n.
 Horses in France, 235, 236.

I.

Income-tax. See Peel.
 Inscriptions, Persian and Assyrian, 413—and see Rawlinson, Botta, and Layard.
 Ireland, superficies and population of, in 1841, 209 n.—causes of its present calamitous state, 239—conduct of Sir Robert Peel towards, 240—Lord John Russell's policy and proceedings, ib.—unfairness of, towards the landlords, 243, 248—the public works, 245—considerations on such an undertaking, ib.—the employment of the people considered, 246—relief committees, 247—promptitude of the landed interest in making provision for the poor, 249—amount paid to labourers, ib.—detrimental effect of the Labour-rate Act on private interests, ib.—interpretation of the act by the Lord-Lieutenant, 250—effect of the act, ib.—officers appointed under the act, ib.—Colonel Douglas's advice at Tipperary, 252—rashness of the Government undertaking, 253—defence of the Government by one of its officers, 254—amount of expenditure, 257—increase of the trade in arms, ib.—Mr. Labouchere's letter to the magistrates, 258; and see Poor Law.

 Italy, memorials of the Stuarts in, 143.

J.

Johnson, Dr., Shakespearian labours of, 312—his view of the character of Hamlet, 313.

K.

Khorsabad. See Botta.
 Knight, Charles. See Shakespeare.

L.

Lassen. See Rawlinson.
 Law, the slight knowledge of, amongst laymen, 63—increase in law-making since Reform Bill, ib.—education in, neglected at the Universities, 64—law students in the time of Henry VI., ib.—of Charles II., 66.
 Layard, Mr., discoveries of, at Nimroud, 445-448.
 Lely, Sir Peter, portraits by. See Dress.
 Loughborough, Lord, on the payment of the Roman Catholic Clergy, 506.

M.

Malt-tax, the, Repeal of, 267.
 Malmesbury. See Sidmouth.
 Manners, Lord John, verses of, on the entrance of Montrose into Edinburgh, 53.
 'Marine Stores, Dealer in,' 135.
 Metcalf, Rev. F., his translations of Professor Becker's works, 372.
 Mounier, M., his work on French agriculture, 202, 205.
 Montpensier, Duke of. See Utrecht.
 Montrose, the Life and Times of, by M. Napier, Esq., 1—cool reception of, by Charles I., 3—joins the Covenanters, ib.—expeditions to the north, 4—conference with Huntley, ib.—treachery of the Covenanters, ib.—Montrose's resentment, 5—he re-enters Aberdeen, ib.—the slaughter of lap-dogs, ib.—the Raid of Stonehaven, 6—interview between Montrose and the King, ib.—the King prepares to invade Scotland, 7—the bond at Cumbernauld, ib.—Montrose crosses the Tweed, ib.— passage of the Tyne, ib.—and battle of Newburn, ib.—the 'Long Parliament,' 8—Montrose's letter to the King, ib.—is summoned before the Committee of Estates, ib.—and imprisoned, 9—the King's arrival in Scotland, ib.—and his intercession for Montrose, 10—Montrose discloses the treachery of Hamilton and Argyle, ib.—'the Incident,' ib.—release of Montrose, 12—his advice to the Queen, ib.—interview with Henderson, 14—proceeds to the court of Charles, 15—is appointed Lieutenant-General, 16—and created a Marquis, ib.—arrives at Inchbrakie, 18—gives battle to Lord Elcho's army, 19—his skill as a General, 20—'Reasons for the surrender of Perth,' 21—murder of Kilpont, 22—Montrose marches on Aberdeenshire, ib.—the surprise at Fyvie Castle, 24—enmity between the houses of Campbell and Graham, 25—march on Inverary, 26—flight of Argyle, ib.—battle of Inverlochy, 27—Montrose turns again on Aberdeenshire, 28—Urrey sent to reinforce Baillie, ib.—they pursue Montrose, 29—battle of Aulderne, ib.—of Alford, 31—of Kilsyth, 32—flight of Argyle, 33—clemency of Montrose, ib.—appointed Captain-General, 34—is deserted by the Highlanders, 35—defeated by Leslie, 36—flies to Peebles, and to the Highlands, 37—the 'Slain-men's-lee,' ib.—Montrose raises another army, 38—is joined by Sir John Urrey, ib.—the King surrenders himself to the Scotch, 39—Montrose dismisses his army, ib.—and leaves Scotland, ib.—his life in exile, 40—the key to secret correspondence of, ib.—his 'love-song,' 42—conduct of Henrietta Maria towards, 40, 44—his feelings on hearing of the murder of Charles I., ib.—tenders his allegiance to Charles II., ib.—arrives in Scotland, 46—his progress, 47—is defeated at Corbiesdale, ib.—his wanderings, 48—is made prisoner, 50—anecdote of the lady Skibo, 51—stratagem of the lady Grange, ib.—insults offered to, 52—sentence on, ib.—exhibition of, at Edinburgh, ib.—lines on his prison window, 55—execution, 56—his heart, 57—character, 58.

N.

Napier, Mark, Esq. See Montrose.
Nimroud. See Layard.

O.

Optical science, commencement of era in, 97—and phenomena of, ib.

P.

Peel, Sir R., influence of his policy on the state of Ireland, 239—his preference to direct instead of indirect taxation, 267—reasons for fixing the income-tax at 7*d.* in the pound, 267 n.—proof of his having resolved on the perpetuity of the income-tax before August, 1845, 468—his late policy, 482.
Pellw. See Sidmouth.
Phlebotomy, adopted in the Roman armies as a punishment, 369.
Pitt. See Sidmouth.
Planché, J. R. See Dress.
Plough, the, the most effective instrument of national prosperity, 204 and note.
Porter, Sir R. K., mistake of, as to the sculptures at Behistan, 415—account of the Tomb of Cyrus by, 421.
Property, the law of descent of, in France, 207; and see Agriculture.
Punjab, war of the, 269 n.—Lord Hardinge's plan of reinforcing the advanced posts, 270—inaccuracies in Q. Rev., vol. lxxviii., corrected, 272.
Poor Law, remarks on out-door relief, by A. Shafto Adair, Esq., 463—the report of the Scotch Poor Law Commissioners, 464—the principle of the Irish Poor Law, ib.—consequences of establishing out-door relief in Ireland, 465—the burdens on the lauded interests considered, ib., 467—the modes of assessment in Scotland, 466—the system of middlemen, 469—caution to be observed in legislative changes, 470—plan proposed for cases of exacting excessive rent, ib.—effect of over-rented land on the people, 471—Ireland not yet fit for permanent legislation, ib.—means to be adopted for the attainment of truth, 472—Mr. Adair's account of the applicants for work at Ballymena, 473—relations of Great Britain with Ireland, 474—the duty of England, 475—the immediate cause of the Irish misery, 478—probable effect of the potato disease on the people, 479—Mr. Nicholl's sketch of the desultory and idle habits of the Irish, ib.—the scramble for the Government 'light work,' 480—a system for the care of the sick recommended, ib.—the principle on which the Relief Bill will be carried, 483—the duty of the House of Lords with regard to, 484.

R.

Ragged schools, 127; and see Schools.

Raikes, Rev. H. See Brenton.

Rawlinson, Major H. C.—the Persian cuneiform inscription at Behistan deciphered and translated, with a Memoir by, 413—coincidence in the interpretation by different parties, 414—Professor Grotefend's discoveries, 415—description of the arrow-headed characters, 416—inquiries by MM. Martin, Rask, and Bournouf, ib.—completeness of Lassen's alphabet, 417—industry of Major Rawlinson, ib. and 435—disadvantages of his isolated position, 418—meets with M. Westergaard, 420—account of actual historical discoveries, ib.—the tomb of Cyrus, ib.—its inscription, 421—inscriptions commemorative of Darius, 422—situation and description of Behistan, 423—inscriptions there, 424—explanation of the sculpture, ib. and 425—Darius' right to the throne of Persia considered, 426—how represented in the inscriptions, ib.—prediction respecting, 428—transcript of part of the Behistan inscription, ib.—the Magian conspiracy, 432—derivation of the word Ormazd considered, 433—inscriptions at Persepolis, ib.—monument of Darius, 434—names of the conspirators against Gomates, ib.

Registration of titles, a general system of, recommended, 220 n.

Reynolds, costume in portraits by, 395.

Romans, private life of, 336.

Russell, Lord John, his opinions on 'Party,' 241—his late political policy, ib.—his pledge on withdrawing the Irish Arms Act, 259—remarks of, on the double Spanish marriage negotiated after the Peace of Utrecht, 403.

S.

Salt, as food for cattle, 233 n.

Schools, Ragged.—'The second annual Report of the Ragged-School Union, established for the support of schools for the destitute poor,' 127—description of the class of beings benefited by, ib.—filthy state of some of the metropolitan districts, 129—origin of ragged schools, 130—difficulties contended with, 131—zeal of the teachers, 132—statistics of crime by persons under 20 years, 133—carelessness of tradespeople and servants, 134—meaning of a 'Dealer in Marine Stores,' 135—number of schools in existence, ib.—the Jurston-street school, 135 n.—the course of study, 135—the industrial class, ib.—expenses of the establishment, 136—social condition of the children, ib.—anecdotes, 138, 139—effect of schools, 140—provincial schools, ib.—scheme for an industrial day-school, ib.

Science, physical, present state of, 93—tendency to pursue by direct experiment the more subtle elements of the material world, 94—commencement of the era in chemistry, 96—in electricity, ib.—in optical science, 97—in astronomy, 98—in geology, 99—physical geography, 100—heat, ib.—physiology, ib.—increasing exactness of science in all methods of research, 101—Liebig's principle on combination and decomposition of matters, 101 n.—want of perception among the ancients, 102—progress of analysis in chemistry, 103—of knowledge in meteorology, and its phenomena, ib.—in physical geography, 104—in zoology, ib.—in geology, 105—in astronomy, ib.—general progress in instrumental perfection, 106—the steam-engine, 107—electricity, 108; and see Faraday.

Scotland, superficialities and population of, in 1841, 209 n.; and see Poor Law.

Shakespeare, editions of, by Charles Knight and J. P. Collier, Esqrs., 313—Mr. Dyce's remarks upon, 310, 316—his high notion of his calling, 312—Johnson's Shakespearian labours, ib.—his view of Hamlet, 313—the want of a new edition of, ib.—a wide field for discovery still open, 318—the opening scene in Hamlet, ib.—Shakespeare's attention to the subtlest minutiae, 319—wonderful compression of the scene, 320—characteristic of Hamlet, 321—his reasons for assuming madness, ib.—the scenes between Hamlet and Polonius, ib. 327—Warburton's criticisms, 323—the scene with Rosencrantz and Guildenstern, 324—the 'method' in the madness intended by Shakespeare, 329—the character of Polonius, ib.—the scene with Ophelia, 330—difficulties of easy passages viewed through the medium of a wrong idea, 332—the character of Hamlet, 333.

Sheep, one of the chief causes of the proprosperity of England, 231—details regarding, in France and England, ib.—extent of sheep-farming in England, 232 n.

Sidmouth, Henry, Viscount, the 'Life and Correspondence of,' by the Hon. and Rev. G. Pellew, D.D., 484—Addington's birth and early life, 486—intimacy with Pitt, 487, 497—elected for Devizes, ib.—reluctance to take part in debate, 488—Speakership, ib. 489 n.—the speaker's salary, 489—the most indispensable quality for filling the chair, 489 n.—Mr. Burke's dagger scene, 489— anecdotes of Mr. Pitt, 490, 493—Addington as financier, 494—accepts the command of a troop of yeomanry, 495—duel between Pitt and Tierney, 496—speech on the Irish Union, ib.—the first parliament of the United Kingdom, 497—Cabinet deliberations on Catholic emancipation, 499—the king's letter to the speaker, 501—censure due to Pitt, 502—character of Lord Malmesbury's diaries, 503—the king's doubts arising out of the coronation oath, 505—Lord Loughborough's observations on the payment of the Roman Catholic clergy, 506—arrangements for a new ministry, 508—indisposition of the king, 510—Mr. Addington's prescription, 511—Pitt's assistance to Addington in the formation of a new ministry, 512—distribution of offices, ib.—Canning's pleasantries, 513 and note—the Addington ministry, 514—form of communication between the king and his ministers, 515—the peace of Amiens, 520—rupture between Pitt and Addington, 522—Dr. Pellew's charge against Pitt, 524—commission of naval inquiry, 526—message of March 1803, 527—Nelson's note, ib.—feeling between Pitt and Addington, ib.—negotiations between, 528—Pitt's own version, 529—important result of the negotiation, 530—Mr. Tierney's appointment, 531—result of the motions of censure on ministers, ib.—the King's letter to Addington thereon, ib.—effect of Buonaparte's intended invasion on political parties, 532—Mr. Pitt's explanatory letter to the King, 533—his opposition to the ministry, 534—Addington's resignation, ib.—the King's letters to him, ib.—Mr. Pitt's ministerial proceedings, 535—reconciliation with Addington, 536—comments on Addington's refusal to accept a peerage or parliamentary provision, ib.—is created Viscount Sidmouth, 537 —his resignation and its retraction, 538—his resignation accepted, 540—the style of subscription used between Mr. Pitt and Lord Sidmouth, ib. and note—death of Pitt, 541—Sidmouth joins the 'All the Talents' administration, 543—his opposition to the slave-trade abolition, 544—death of Fox, ib.—proceedings for procuring the admission of Catholics to the staff of the army, 545—negotiations with Canning, 546—negotiations with Perceval, 547—in opposition, 548—factious movements of, 550—condemnation of the Government financial measures, 551—dissolution of the Duke of Portland's administration, ib.—formation of the Perceval administration, 552—Sidmouth president of the council, 553—death of Perceval, ib.—Sidmouth Home Secretary, ib.—the Manchester riots, ib.—conduct of the Government, 554—Canning and Sidmouth colleagues, ib.—Sidmouth's retirement into private life, 555—his speech on the Roman Catholic Relief Bill, ib.—his conduct on the passing of the Reform Bill, ib.—his death, 556—character, 557.

Slavery. See Greeks.

Smith, Dr. Wm., his Dictionary of Greek and Roman Biography and Mythology, 358 n.

Spanish Marriages. See Utrecht.

Stuarts, the, in Italy, 141—supporters of the Jacobite cause in England, 142—memorials in Italy, 143—faithlessness of the Bourbons to the Stuarts, 144—policy of Pope Clement XI. towards, ib.—the residence at Urbino, 145—amusements of, ib.—Feats of Hercules, 146 and note—death of Mary of Modena, 146—birth of Charles Edward, 147—differences between James and his wife, ib.—Stuart relics, 149—expedition of 1745, ib.—Cordara's account of, 150—character and pursuits of Charles Edward, ib.—he joins the Spanish Camp at Gaeta, 151—descent upon Scotland proposed, 152—the Prince leaves Italy, 153—his adventures, 156—at Paris, 157—arrives in Scotland, ib.—his captivating manners, 158—the retreat from Derby, 160—wanderings, ib.—devotion of Sheridan, ib.—escape, 161—in after life, ib.—marriage, 162—death, ib.—funeral, 163—his will, 164—the Duchess of Albany, ib.—the Stuart Papers, 166—will of Cardinal York, 167.

Steam-engine, the, perfection of, 107.

Sterne, 262.

Stoics, their doctrine on destiny, &c., 361.

T.

Taxation. See Malt-tax and Income-tax.

Tories, policy and inclination of, 265.

U.

Universities, the course of study at the, 64—'the ten years' degree, 65 n—gentlemen-commoners, 70—private tutors, 73—'College debt,' 77.

Urbino. See Stuarts.

Utrecht, treaty of, Considerations respecting the marriage of the Duke of Montpensier, with reference to, 399—protest of England respecting, ib.—probable effect of, ib. and 411—interpretation of the treaty by Lord Palmerston erroneous, 400—avowed contemplation of such a marriage, 401—the mission of M. Pageot, ib.—the provisions of the treaty not heretofore urged against marriages of a similar description, 401, 402

—no mention of the treaty made in the first protest of the British Minister, 404—its governing principle, 405—the Acts of Renunciation by Philip V. and the Duke of Orleans, 406—object of, 407—main purpose of the treaty, 409—the 'family compact,' 410.

V.

Vandyke, style of dress in portraits of, 392.

Vicente, Gil, character of his writings, 169—early life and productions of, 171—reasons for his writing in Spanish, 172—his marriage and family, 173—poverty, 174—his reproof to the clergy, 175—his epitaph, 176—collected works of, 196—the 'Cortes de Jupiter,' 197—Mr. Garrett's 'Auto de Gil Vicente,' 199.

W.

Wellington, the Duke of, opinions on the discipline of the army, 450, 452.

Westergaard, N. L. See Rawlinson.

END OF THE SEVENTY-NINTH VOLUME.

ne
4
ne
7.
ct
y,

f,

9
1
h,

y, ka
97
e, he